Data collection methodology in accordance with the "Transparency" guideline of the AKG Executive Board for implementing the transparency rule in § 28 of the AKG Code of Conduct in the version of July 22, 2014.

The publication of payments to an agency that has acted on behalf of a scientific society is based on the recommendation in the AKG Newsletter (6/2017) regarding the (<https://www.ak-gesundheitswesen.de/wp-content/uploads/akg-news-6-2017.pdf>). According to this recommendation, "Sponsorship amounts (...) are attributed to the agencies upon publication, but with a note that the agency has acted on behalf of the commissioning scientific society. This is to make clear that the donations have been paid to the agency and not directly to the society". For us, " acting" on behalf of a scientific society means that we can prove that an agency / commercial organiser has organized technically an event that has been initiated or organised scientifically by a scientific society. If physicians or other members of the specialist society scientifically manage an event, but Biotest only pays to agencies or commercial organisers, these payments are published for reasons of data protection exclusively as payments to the commercial organiser.

Biotest records and publishes payments to so-called Clinical Research Organizations (CROs) only in the "Research and Development" column to the extent that these are passed on by the CRO to physicians or other healthcare professionals. Contrary to the transparency rule of the AKG, payments to market research companies are not published there even if the healthcare professionals cannot be identified as the ultimate recipient of the payment.
